New tot lot may move to soccer fields

By Don Staruk

The soccer fields at upper Shawsheen off Burnham Road may get the nod from the Board of Selectmen Monday night as the new location for the Penguin Park tot lot.

Selectman Gail Ralston said Tuesday that there is "an informal agreement" among board members on that site.

"The reason that site is attractive is we can have off-street parking," Ms. Ralston said.

The rationale behind off-street parking is to have as little impact as possible on traffic in the neighborhood, according to Ms. Ralston.

Buzz Stapczynski, the town manager, would not single out any one site, but also

Civil Liberties involved in library issue

The Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union Foundation and the Massachusetts Library Association have become involved in the controversy over children's access at Andover's Memorial Hall Library.

And both the Civil Liberties Union and the state's Library Foundation have expressed concern about the policy. In fact, the Civil Liberties Union hints that if it correctly understands the library's access policy, and if the trustees don't change it, the union will take the library to court.

Currently, children in sixth grade and younger are not allowed on the main floor of the library without a parent or without written permission from the librarian in the children's room. The issue came to light in May, when library patron Jean Palmer, of 8 Karlton Circle, raised other questions about the library, as well as the children's access policy, with the library

Andoverites vie for political spots

By Don Staruk

Three Andover residents are challenging Susan Tucker (D-Andover) for her state representative position this fall, a fourth will take on U.S. Rep. Chester Atkins (D-Concord) for his seat in Congress and a fifth Andover resident will seek a spot on the Governor's Council.

Ms. Tucker, of 6 Farrwood Drive, has held the 17th Essex District seat in the state House of Representatives eight years. The district includes Andover and South Lawrence.

Ms. Tucker will be challenged by two Republican newcomers and one person from her own party.

Gary Coon, 26, of 27 Korinthian Way, and Robert Manning Jr., 21, of 9 Longwood Drive, both Republicans, are each making their first run for the house seat.

Mr. Coon, chairman of Andover's Republican Town Committee, owns and operates Essex Water Treatment on Water Street

Paper lists early deadlines due to July 4

Wednesday, July 4, is a holiday. Most businesses and stores are closed.

The Townsman will go to press a day early next week, so deadlines are backed up. The deadline for news for the Thursday, July 5, issue is Friday, June 29, at 5 p.m. The deadline for display advertising for the July 5 issue is also Friday, June 29, at 5 p.m. But the deadline for classified ads for the July 5 issue is Monday, July 2, at noon.

The Townsman offices will be closed on Wednesday, July 4. Also closed are retail stores, libraries, banks, the post office and town offices. The Market Basket grocery store is closed all day. Liquor stores are allowed to be open.

There will be no local bus service on July 4. In addition, no Weebus service will run in Andover and no in-town shuttle.

in Lawrence. The company is a supplier of filters and other water treatment equipment for homes and industry. Mr. Coon has a bachelor's degree from Babson College.

He formally announced his candidacy last week during a reception at the Sheraton Andover Inn.

In his remarks to supporters, Mr. Coon stressed a need for change in state government and called for a return to a "citizens' legislature." He also cited the need for increased investment tax credits and instituting enterprise zones to help the state's struggling cities.

Mr. Manning, a 1986 graduate of Andover High School, graduated last month from the University of Lowell with a bachelor's degree in business administration. Mr. Manning was editor-in-chief of the university newspaper at Lowell, a member of the University Council and a member of the Student Government Association.

He formally announced his candidacy in March.

He would make cuts in state-funded programs before raising taxes and has worked on the "Eight is Enough" campaign against anyone holding office for more than eight years.

John J. Desmond, 38, of 129 Andover St., is the Democrat challenging Ms. Tucker.

Mr. Desmond has been a teacher of history and government in the Billerica school system for the past 15 years. He has a bachelor's degree in history and a master's degree in education.

Mr. Desmond entertained the idea of switching parties and running as a Republican because he sees a movement away from the Democratic party, at least in part due to what he sees as its leaders' self-serving interests.

"The leaders of the modern Democratic party in Massachusetts are now as bad as the old Brahmin Republicans who used the people for their own personal gain," Mr. Desmond wrote in a recent press release.

But he is a believer in the Democratic philosophy and believes it would have been a lie to run as a Republican.

gressional District seat.

Rep. Atkins, 42, of Concord, has held the Senate seat six years.

Mr. Coleman has not yet made a formal announcement of his candidacy, but has turned in the 2,000 signatures required by the state for the nomination.

State Rep. John F. McGovern (R-Harvard) is the other Republican candidate after Rep. Atkins' Senate job. Rep. McGovern, 38, has been a state representative since 1983 for the 2nd Middlesex District, which includes Westford, Ayer, Harvard and Littleton. He is a member of the House Committee on Natural Resources and the Committee for Housing and Urban Development.

Sen. McGovern faces challenge

State Sen. Patricia McGovern (D-Lawrence) faces a challenge for her 2nd Essex and Middlesex District state Senate seat by Republican Alba Castillo of Lawrence.

The Senate seat is a two-year position. Sen. McGovern, 48, of Saunders St.

in Lawrence, has held the Senate seat since 1981 and has chaired the Senate Ways and Means Committee since 1985. She was a state committeewoman.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Andover Bookstore expanding

By Don Staruk

The Andover Bookstore in Olde Andover Village is expanding to accommodate a new line of products and services for Phillips Academy students and alumni.

Bill and Carolyn Dalton, who purchased the bookstore last October from Jerome and Ethel Cross, recently purchased the catalogue business and marketing rights for Phillips Academy products.

"What we own is the right to use the logo and the trademark," Mr. Dalton said last week.

Mr. Dalton bought the catalogue business and marketing rights from Ann Parks, of Lexington, a longtime Phillips employee. He is planning to expand the catalogue business, which already has a mailing list of 23,000 people.

The Phillips products and other items will be available in a new section of the bookstore being constructed on a lower level of the building where Uniglobe Travel used to be. The addition will be accessible via a staircase from the main store.

"We're trying to do something that's upbeat, somewhat in conformance with what we have upstairs, but with the atmosphere of a college or prep school bookstore," Mr. Dalton said.

The new section will offer T-shirts, sweatshirts, umbrellas, glasses and mugs, neckties, pens and pencils and other items, all with the Phillips logo. The section will also have computer equipment, records and tapes, newspapers, magazines and cards.

Local architect John Dugger helped with the structural plans for the addition. A Boston architect is designing the interior. Contractor Ralph Dellatto, of 24 Marie Drive, is doing the construction.

"It's going to be very nice," Mr. Dalton said.

The Andover Bookstore used to be at Phillips and has always had a close relationship with the academy. It moved away from the campus to the corner of Chestnut and Main streets in 1890 and to its present location 35 years ago when the Cross family bought it, according to Mr. Dalton.

Foundation honors the late Ms. Zetlan

The friends and family of Sheila Brodie Zetlan announce that a foundation for cancer research has been established in her memory. Called the Sheila Brodie Zetlan Breast Cancer Research Foundation, donations can be made at the Shawmut Arlington Trust Co. Shawsheen Plaza, Andover, 01810.

The wife of Dr. Howard A. Zetlan, 11 Woodhaven Drive, Ms. Zetlan was diagnosed with breast cancer and died two years later, April 6 of this year. An area resident for 16 years, she went to Chicago to undergo a stem cell transplantation combined with high dose chemotherapy. Although this procedure did not work for Ms. Zetlan, it has worked for others.

She was the office manager for her husband's dental practice, as well as the mother of Michael, a recent graduate of Phillips Academy and of Peter, who is 12.

She was active in the Greater Lawrence Chapter of Hadassah, the sisterhood of Temple Emanuel and she enjoyed gardening and travel.

In writing about establishing the foundation, Dr. Zetlan said, "In some way or other, cancer is a disease that touches everyone. Each of us knows someone who has been affected — a relative, a friend, or a neighbor. Many struggle bravely and win, but far too many lose against overwhelming odds. Although advances in the field of cancer research have been made, much work remains to be done."

All money raised by the foundation will be allocated to medical centers committed to breast cancer research. This year's funding will go to the University of Chicago Hospital, a leader in the field of breast cancer research, according to Dr. Zetlan.

Trustees of the foundation are Dr. Zetlan, Sidney H. Brodie, Dr. Evan Brodie, Judith Brodie, Dr. Jeffrey Cantor, Dr. Stephanie Williams and Edward D. Kutchin.

Well, well, what have we here? Postmaster Tony Mendoza, left, gives up his office and title for a day last Sunday, during the Stevens Street site's open house. Postmaster for the day is David Mazza, the son of Mary and Frank Mazza of Rindge Road, and he looks mighty comfortable.

New recycling set for August

Starting in August, the new system of recycling begins. The week of Aug. 6, half the town will recycle at curbside (glass and paper) and the next week the other half of the town will recycle.

Waste Management, of North Andover, is scheduled to sign the five-year recycling contract at town offices Monday. The week of July 30, recycling bins and schedule calendars will be delivered to all residents.

Andover Recycling Inc. will continue organizing the curbside collection of paper every other week on trash day until Waste Management takes over in August. Glass and plastic will continue to be collected at West Middle School on Shawsheen Road on July 7 and 21, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., before also handing over the glass collection to Waste Management.

Plastic will continue to be collected at the West Middle School after July, but only on the third Saturday of each month. (Used to be first and third Saturday). Plastic and aluminum may be incorporated into the town's curbside collection program later on, but are not economically feasible to include now, according to Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski.

Waste Management's recycling schedule still needs to be worked out.

Recycling will be done every other week on the same day as trash pickup, half the town one week and the other half the next. The decision as to which streets get picked up what week depends on the trash collection route Vining Disposal Service sets up.

TOWNTALK

Stephanie Varley, 8, daughter of Tom and Buffy Varley, of 9 Crestwoond Drive, took her pen pal correspondence with a friend in Ireland one step further and involved members of her second grade class at Sanborn School. The Andover students wrote letters to their Irish counterparts and Stephanie delivered the letters on a recent family trip to Cork County, Ireland. There, she visited her Irish friend, Natalie Cashman's school. Natalie is the daughter of Bill and Lynn (Munson) Cashman. The Irish students presented her with 30 letters to take back to Andover.

Stephanie Varley of Andover, at right, stands with her pen pal, Natalie Cashman, from Ireland. The two girls' schools exchanged letters this year.

Bill Dalton, of 9 Old South Lane and the owner of the Andover Bookstore, had a back operation to remove a disc on Wednesday night and was back to work on Friday.

"This is a miracle. I'm telling you," Mr. Dalton said Friday afternoon.

The disc slipped out of place last November while Mr. Dalton was playing racquetball at the Willows Racquet and Fitness Center in North Andover. He has been in pain since Thanksgiving.

During the last seven months he tried a chiropractor, acupuncture and several other remedies. Finally, he decided to try surgery.

He was operated on at 6 p.m. Wednesday and back on his feet by 9 p.m. After being held overnight for observation, he was standing out in the street waiting for a ride home by 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

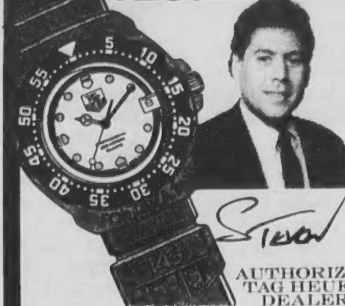

"If I had to do it all over again, I'd go right to the surgery," Mr. Dalton said. "It's miraculous."

The surgeon who worked on him is Dr. Gerwin Neuman, a resident neurologist (Continued on page 10)

Chicago company to move to Andover

Fallon Hines & O'Connor, exclusive leasing agent for Ten New England Business Center, in cooperation with Whittier Partners, recently announced the lease signing of Transamerica Commercial Finance at Ten New England Business Center in Andover.

Transamerica Commercial Finance, based in Chicago, will occupy 7,200 square feet on the building's third floor. This location will serve as their regional corporate offices and computer operations center.

George Japak, the company's operations manager, said, "Ten New England Business Center provides a rich and comfortable environment for our group. National Development Associates Inc. has been responsive and has worked hard to meet our time frames and budget."

Developed by National Development Associates Inc., Ten New England Business Center is an 88,000-square-foot office park located adjacent to the Marriot Hotel. The first tenants occupied the building in January and space is still available.

Rick Graham, principal of Fallon Hines & O'Connor, stated, "National Development has clearly carved a niche in the high end of the Andover office market by providing this office facility with its high level of finishes and variety of amenities."

The amenities include a child care center operated by Bright Horizons, jogging trails along the Merrimack River, showers off the lobby, planned food service and the services of the Marriott Hotel, including health club and conference capabilities.

Transamerica will join Mobil Oil, Marriott, GenTek, DisCom, Chips & Technologies and Manpower at Ten New England Business Center. The building is now 30 percent leased.

at New England Baptist Hospital. Mr. Dalton recommends him highly.

The two child stars currently playing Gavrouche in the play "Les Miserables" at the Shubert Theater in Boston for the past couple months put on a brief act at the Townsman Monday afternoon. Kelly O'Neill, 10, son of Paul and Susan O'Neill, of 11 Argyle Road, shares the role of Gavrouche with Aaron Metchik of Los Angeles, in the play.

Aaron spent the weekend at the O'Neill household so he and Kel could go to the Jokers Wild joke shop in North Reading Monday. They showed up at the Townsman with a fake hand grenade and a Ninja sword ready to take over the place. Then they were off to the movies to see "Dick Tracy."

"Les Miserables" is scheduled to wind up this weekend.

Andover resident Patricia Worthley will handle the novice program and work with the unit hospitality for the Summer North American Bridge Championships, which will take place in Boston July 20-29 at the Hynes Auditorium. According to the American Contract Bridge league, "A tournament of this size will pour $10 million into the city's economy during the 10-day event."

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

There is little evidence to suggest that parents need to spend one, two or ten hours a day with a baby less than six months of age. The baby must be cared for; he needs to feel secure, but he does not necessarily need a constant adult presence. The recommendation, of course, is that parents should be generous with their time during their babies' first half year. There is certainly no danger in overattending and paying lots of attention to your baby during that time. Besides, we all know how much fun it is to play with a baby—especially as he becomes more and more sociable.

You will enjoy seeing the beautiful selection of baby things at TINY TOTLAND. Leading brand name furniture including Simmons, Childcraft, Bassett & Morigeaux. Company helps students target financial aid

Every year millions of eligible students miss out on their share of the $26 billion available because they don't know which programs to apply for and how to increase their eligibility for these programs, according to a Boston company that says knowledge is the key to locating these funds.

Scholarship Strategies Ltd. says every student can qualify for some form of financial aid — all they need is a plan, according to company's spokesperson, Lee Burke.

Scholarship Strategies' computer service analyzes each student's background and prepares a multi-page report that includes sources of private scholarships programs; state, federal and special campus-based financial aid programs and Pell Grant and Guaranteed Student Loan information.

The report also gives strategies to increase the size of the financial aid award and procedures to complete the state and federal student aid applications that will give the student the most favorable evaluation, the spokesperson said.

For information, including a free copy of "10 Ways to Stretch Your Scholarship Changes," contact Scholarship Strategies, 167 Milk St., Suite 214, Boston 02109.

Winners in the wheelbarrow race were Nicole Niles and Caitlin Thomann, 6 and under; Mike Kaczynski and Shawn Thomann, 8- to 10-year-olds; Eric Shessler and Mike O'Neil, 10 and over.

More than 200 attended the event. A Mass was celebrated at dusk by the Rev. Thom Meehan, O.S.A.

Spanish students need hosts

Pam Green of 6 Tallyho Lane is looking for host families for a group of 27 students from Spain who will arrive July 7 to visit for four weeks. Some of them already have host families, but 15 families still are needed as hosts.

The program planned for the students includes four weekday morning classes at St. Augustine School on Central Street. The students will study English, culture and history.

Many afternoon local activities also are planned, as well as four full-day excursions to places such as Boston, Rockport and Sturbridge Village. Most weekends and evenings are free to spend with the host family to develop an understanding of American family life.

Host families are expected to be interested in learning about another culture and sharing theirs. A host family needs to be willing to accept the student into the family routine activities and provide warmth and friendship, Ms. Green said.

Anyone interested in becoming a host family may call Ms. Green at 475-9537 for more information.

Another example of Raytheon's continuing support of education.

Robert Cooper, a Raytheon engineer, working on a bridge-building science project with students at Charlestown High School.

Kids deserve to meet success face-to-face.

All too often, minority kids have only a limited acquaintance with success. They may not have role models to tell them of the opportunities the world has to offer.

That's why the encouragement and guidance these youngsters receive from people like engineer Robert Cooper are so important. One of the five Raytheon employees chosen as Greater Boston YMCA Black Achievers for 1990, he, like the others, became deeply involved in the Massachusetts Pre-Engineering Program known as Mass PEP. It's helping 550 Boston and Cambridge middle and high school students develop the skills needed for engineering, science, math, and computer careers.

Don't fool yourself. It's far from easy to convince teenagers that the road to professional success starts with four years of high school science and high school math. But few people are better qualified than Robert Cooper and his associates to tell young people that engineers are made, not born, and that if you're going to make something of yourself, you start early.

Raytheon supports Black Achievers, Mass PEP, and numerous other community educational and cultural programs because we believe helping youngsters realize their potential is fundamental to the welfare of our country and our state. And at Raytheon, quality starts with fundamentals.

Robert Cooper, Stephen Harris, Benjamin Harrell, Dorothy McLeod, and Yolanda McClesse are all Raytheon employees who have been chosen as 1990 Black Achievers.

Christopher T. Tomkinson of Andover was awarded a $1,000 scholarship by the National Guard Association of Massachusetts for outstanding academic and citizenship achievements. He was selected from more than 200 applicants. The National Guard awarded 12 scholarships to active members or their sons and daughters who plan on entering or are enrolled in a full-time college program. Pictured from left are Barbara Tomkinson, Christopher T. Tomkinson, Capt. Donald Moffitt and Matt Tomkinson.

Trio joins business honor society

Northern Essex Community College recently inducted 82 members into the college's Beta Omicron Chapter of Alpha Beta Gamma, a national business honor society.

Andover residents inducted into the society are Meredith K. Haselton, Michelle Murphy and Linda L. Sullivan.

The honored students from the day and evening divisions must have maintained a 3-point cumulative grade average; earned a minimum of 15 credits, 12 of which must be in the division of business; and displayed qualities of citizenship and good moral character, a spokesman for the organization said.

Correction

The participants in the town-wide elementary spelling bee were inadvertently misidentified in a June 21st caption ("Last day of school: part work, part play").

Fourth-grade Sanborn Elementary School student Mark Tompkins, son of Dennis and Marianne Tompkins, won the Isabelle Dobbie Spelling Bee. South School fourth-grader Raj Dandage came in second.

Sanborn School cleaned up in the annual test of spelling expertise. Placing first and second for the fifth-grade class were Sanborn's Molly Seavey and Peter Bernardin, respectively.

What would the Fourth be without John Philip Sousa?

The Middlesex Concert Band will perform its Fourth of July concert on the Andover Town Common Wednesday, July 4, at 10 a.m.

The concert is free and will feature Sousa marches and selections from American musical theater. The town of Andover is the sponsor for the concert, an outdoor breakfast and other activities for big and little kids.

The Middlesex Concert Band consists of more than 50 performers with a rich symphonic sound. The band plays a Pops format, and its repertoire includes marches (by John Philip Sousa, among others), Big Band, Dixieland jazz, folk tunes and Broadway musical and movie scores by composers such as John Williams.

The concert band has performed recently at Boston's Hatch Shell, Gloucester's Stage Fort Park (as part of its Fourth of July Horribles Parade and fireworks show), the Salem Willows Shell (as part of its Heritage Days), as well as town commons in Andover, Salem, Lynnfield and Waltham.

The Middlesex Concert Band has a 50-year history in the Boston and North Shore areas. Originally conceived as the Redmen's Band, it began as an offshoot of the fraternal organization for descendants of the Boston Tea Party "Indians."

Based in its early years in Wakefield and Melrose, it may be recalled as the Redmen's Marching Band, renowned for its colorful and authentic Plains Indian costumes with full headdress.

Conductor and Music Director Robson W. Shelly completed his undergraduate studies at West Chester State in Pennsylvania and received a master's degree in conducting from New York's Columbia University.

He attended the Pierre Montreux Domain School of Conducting and was a conducting fellow at the National Conducting Symposium at Syracuse University, led by Karel Husa. He has studied conducting under Frank Battisti of New England Conservatory as well as the Eastman School of Music's Frederick Fennell.

Mr. Shelly has conducted or guest conducted the Salem Philharmonic, North Shore Philharmonic, New England

Performers show off their talent

Above, Abbie Parsons, a 15-year-old comedienne, breaks up the crowd with a few jokes. She took her comic act, "Commercial Messages," to Old Town Hall for a talent show Sunday.

At right, 10-year-old Sabrina Gum sings "Castle on a Cloud." She is a student of Andover vocal teacher Sandra Bedrosian and took first place in the youth division of the talent show. Joseph Sciacca, 10, came in second for his rendition of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

In the adults' category, vocalist Cheryl Cannon, who sang "Black Velvet," placed first, and twins Kelli and Kerri Belluaro won second prize for their vocal duet, "There's No Business Like Show Business."

The performers had a little stage fright, said Ms. Bedrosian, who added, "This is what it's all about."

Teen-agers head to beach

The Department of Community Services sponsored the first of what staff say will be many events for the town's teen-agers 12 to 16 years old. The evening included a barbecue and volleyball games at Pumps Pond.

The group also discussed events for future weeks. Plans include a dance at Old Town Hall, Boston trips to Faneuil Hall, the Hard Rock Cafe and a Red Sox game as well as a Monday, July 2, trip to Hampden Beach.

A chaperoned bus will leave from the Senior Center parking lot, next to town offices on Bartlet Street.

Interested teens should be at the parking lot at 4:30 p.m. At least 25 people are needed to run the trip. The cost will be $7 per person. The bus will leave at 5 and return at 9:30 p.m. Young people may bring a friend.

Andover teachers' piano students try their fingers at auditioning

Piano students from the studios of Andover residents June Persing, Kathleen Benson and Linda Shen participated in the annual national piano auditions sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers. The auditions were held at the University of Lowell June 4 to 9.

Students ages 6 through adult prepared programs of three to 16 pieces and performed in private, non-competitive auditions. Each performer was evaluated for rhythm, phrasing, pedaling, accuracy and tone quality.

These auditions provide goals and awards to work toward, a formal recognition of accomplishment and membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, Mrs. Persing said. More than 100,000 piano students nationwide participate.

The piano teachers' guild, headquartered in Austin, Texas, has selected Estrid Eklof Welwood of New Britain, Conn., to adjudicate this year. Ms. Welwood is the director of music at Wesleyan University and on the faculty of Central Connecticut State University; she also maintains a private studio.

Participating under the guidance of the Mrs. Persing were Sarah Adam, Sefany Andreadis, Stephanie Barrett, Kara Brady, Kaye Brady, Roger Cohen, Laura Daly, Amy Gustafson, Amanda Holmgren, Robin Holmgren, Hemant Joshi, Creence Lin, Matthew McGrath, Melissa Minot, Leanne Kindred, Alaina Sch-

Painter invites others into 'room of her own'

This weekend marks the first open studio for Lynn Loscutt of Andover at her painting studio at 84 Langsford St. in Lanesville (Gloucester).

Ms. Loscutt separates her home from her painting work, a formula she says she has found successful as a woman artist.

Ms. Loscutt has been painting and traveling for the past four years. This preview into her visual diary represents her impressions from her travels to Russia, China, Japan, France, Israel and her beloved New England.

She invites friends and the curious to take a look at her art works on Saturday, June 30, and Sunday, July 1, from 1 to 7 p.m.

After a career in art administration at the Copley Society of Boston, the oldest art association in America, Ms. Loscutt was able to concentrate on her own art and locate an old art studio at the corner of Coggeshall Road and Lagsford Street in Lanesville.

It was long abandoned, but three decades ago John Coggeshall had a studio and art school at the site, Ms. Loscutt said.

Ms. Loscutt often sketches in pen and ink and drops watercolor into the painting later in her hotel room or at home. Line and color dominate her artistic expression.

But her real excitement, she says, comes from having her own studio to "think art in."

Ms. Loscutoff is essentially an outdoor painter, but the studio is "a validation of taking yourself seriously as an artist and having a place where you can resolve artistic problems and shut yourself off from domestic or other stimulation and demands," she said.

Couple marries at New Hampshire church

Bobbie Kathryn Louise Nash of Chester, N.H., and David J. Beesley Jr. of Garden City, N.Y., were married June 9 at the Chester Congregational-Baptist Church, St. Jerome's Mission, in Chester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Nash of Nashua, N.H., and Singer Island, Fla.; and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Beesley Sr. of Garden City.

The Rev. Janet M. MacGray and the Rev. Daniel Deveau performed the ecumenical, double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mary-Ellen McDonough-Goodspeed of Bedford, N.H., as matron of honor. Her bridesmaids were Laury Beesley of Windham, N.H., and Jayne Beesley of Powell, Ohio, sisters-in-law of the groom; Susan Chaouloff of Carle Place, N.Y., sister of the groom; and Maureen Cadieux of Chester, friend of the bride. Kathleen E. Goodspeed of Bedford, N.H., the groom's goddaughter, was a junior bridesmaid.

John A. Rubino of Peekskill, N.Y., was the best man. Serving as ushers were the groom's brothers, Jeff Beesley of Windham and Matthew Beesley of Powell; his friends Scott Goodspeed of Bedford and Steven Wolfe of Minneapolis, Minn.; his brother-in-law, Claude Chaouloff of Carle Place; and the bride's brother, Roger Nash of Nashua.

Delores Cavalier of Westbury, N.Y., the groom's aunt, attended the guest book.

The church was decorated in a garden style motif. Double-ball topiaries graced the entrances of the church, and the aisles had white satin pew bows.

The bride wore an Illisa gown of French lace and taffeta. Its princess-line bodice was decorated with seed pearls and opalescent sequins. She carried a free-form style bouquet containing 10 cattleya orchids hand wired together with variegated ivy and backed with tulle netting.

After a reception at the Marriott Hotel in Nashua, the couple took a wedding trip to Palm Beach, Fla.

The bride attended Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y., the University of New Hampshire in Durham, N.H., and Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, Fla. She is president and developer of the B.K. Nash Cos.

The groom, who attended Ithaca College in Ithaca, N.Y., and the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, is director of financial and administrative systems at Mercy Hospital Mental Health Services. The couple lives in Chester.

Temple's Sisterhood elects new officers

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel held its closing luncheon for the year June 11. Arlene Ginsberg ended her two-year presidency as she addressed the women.

Lillian Roth was named "Sister of the Year" for her devotion and help during the year as well as her past 28 years with Temple Emanuel. She is the wife of the temple's spiritual leader, Rabbi Harry Roth.

The Sisterhood serves Temple Emanuel with support from fund-raisers and programs. Recent events include fashion shows, membership galas, party-planning day, boutique day, the Enchanted Circle Theater visit and speakers Jack Williams of Channel 4 and Eileen Prose of Channel 5's "Good Day."

Alice Radack was installed as the Sisterhood president for 1990-'91. Sylvia Goldman served as installing officer.

Assisting Ms. Radack on the board will be vice presidents Nan Blank and Susan Shainker, secretaries Cathy Sabath and Carol Lebovidge, treasurer Sally Gordon, programming specialists Heidi Greene and Lori Gerber, membership chairwomen Ruth Rosensweig, Melanie Shippon and Judy Matulsky, publicity chairwomen Judy Kaufman and Tana Hahn, and ways and means gala chairwomen Paula Malloy and Michelle Katz.

Under Ms. Radack's leadership, the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel looks forward to a year dedicated to multigenerational events, including a youth group, Ms. Kaufman said.

Almost all of the 64 non-tenured teachers given pink slips by the School Committee in April were re-hired by the committee Tuesday night. The $250,000 added to the schools' budget at Town Meeting, June 11, is sufficient to return 56 teachers to the school system, but not enough to fill five positions that may be eliminated due to retirement.

Andover High School will still lose Kristine Clasby, an adjustment counselor, as well as William Hart, a social studies teacher, when it opens its doors in September. Doherty Middle School will lose Elizabeth Flynn, an English teacher, and West Elementary won't have the services of adjustment counselor Janet Yednak.

Other positions eliminated earlier and not filled at this time are: at the high school, one industrial arts position, .4 home economics, one English, one math, one science, .5 art, .6 physical education (possibly a combination of adaptive PE systemwide and high school) and .5 instructional assistant, at the middle school level, .5 instructional assistant, at the elementary level, .5 adjustment counselor and one learning disabilities instructional assistant.

Four special education teachers weren't re-hired by the committee Tuesday night. But, the committee said the teachers may be recalled at any time during the school year depending on schedule and enrollment figures.

The positions affected are two at West Elementary, one at Sanborn Elementary and one at Doherty Middle School.

Sheila Eckoff, president of the Andover Education Association, the teachers' union, thanked the committee for its "full attempt" to re-hire as many teachers as possible and asked when the re-hired teachers would be notified. She was told letters to individual teachers would be drawn up and mailed Wednesday, June 27.

Richard Hubbell, committee member, wasn't cajoled by Mrs. Eckoff's pat on the back.

"If we had had a more reasonable settlement we wouldn't have had to lay off any teachers," he said.

Mr. Hubbell was referring to the 18.5 percent salary increase spread over three years the teachers and committee negotiated last March. Mr. Hubbell has repeatedly blamed the high settlement for exacerbating the schools' budget problems.

Cyndy Stolz shares some cooking tips from her Waverly Drive kitchen.

Admitting kitchen mistakes

By Hannah Kleiman

Cyndy Stolz of Waverly Drive recalls inviting some friends over after an evening out. She had prepared her husband's favorite lemon meringue pie. While slicing the pie in the kitchen and tasting a sliver, she immediately realized that something had gone wrong. The pie was a disaster. Figuring a way to get out of this mess gracefully, she managed to trip "accidentally on purpose" as she describes it, ruining the pie but not her reputation.

And then there was the time she kept whipping Half and Half instead of whipping cream for an hour.

Ms. Stolz always has considered herself an excellent cook and so does everyone who knows her. Her spaghetti sauce simmers all day long and she feels guilty preparing pre-packaged foods. So what's two mistakes in 24 years of marriage?

Ms. Stolz and her husband, Joe, an economist for the federal government, have lived in Andover for almost 12 years and love it here. They also love sports. While Joe and their two sons, Rob, a sophomore at Syracuse University, and Eric, a sixth-grader at Doherty Middle School, are active participants, Ms. Stolz not only stands on the sideline cheering but has also been vice president of the Soccer Association and on the hockey board six years.

"This is our way of giving back to sports what it has given us throughout the years," she says.

Politics are also important to the Stolz family and Cyndy recently resigned an elected position as a member of the Andover Town Democratic Committee. She works as a program director at Rolling Green Tennis Club.

Ms. Stolz will not reveal how she and her husband met until their children are 25 years old. However, she is willing to share her famous lemon meringue pie and other desserts.

Lemon meringue pie

1½ cups sugar
7 tbsp. cornstarch
dash salt
1½ cups water
3 well beaten egg yolks (save whites)
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 tbsps. margarine
½ cup lemon juice
1 9" baked pie crust

Mix first three ingredients in saucepan. Stir in water, bring to boil stirring frequently. Cook until thick. Remove from heat. Stir small amount into egg yolks, add to rest of hot mixture. Bring to boil and cook one minute. Remove from heat, add lemon peel and margarine. Slowly stir in lemon juice. Cool and pour into cooled pie crust and top with meringue.

Meringue

3 egg whites
1 tsp. lemon juice
6 tbsps. sugar
Beat egg whites with lemon juice until soft peaks. Add sugar, beating until stiff. Mound on pie and seal all edges. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes until done.

Wind pudding

1 14½-oz. can evaporated milk
1 4-oz. package lemon gelatin
1 ¾ cup hot water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup sugar
2½ cups vanilla wafer crumbs

(The 80/90 Series is the most popular sports sedan in Germany.) Audi fully galvanizes every square centimeter of every car body, inside and out. Of all the world's auto-makers, Porsche is the only one we know of who does the same. It's such complete protection that prototype cars have withstood years of outdoor exposure without so much as a single coat of paint. Of course, galvanizing is only the beginning. To paint and finish an Audi requires 27 separate steps. We spray the underbody with PVC. And wherever moisture might accumulate, it never gets the chance. We flood those areas with hot wax.

As an indication of just how good this protection is, you might want to compare corrosion warranties. Mercedes'

Our philosophy is that a car designed for long life will give greater enjoyment no matter how many years you personally own it. Teflon® coated door hinges, for example, don't simply extend hinge life. They work without a squeak. Or the need for lubrication.

Obviously, we realize you're looking for something more to enjoy than door hinges. Should that be a sports sedan, you'll find our 80/90 Series more than fits the description.

thing that helps you avoid one.

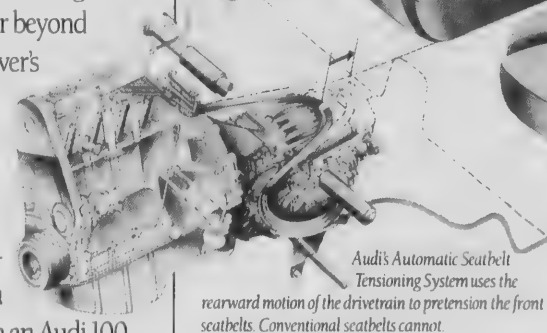

Either way, the advantages of driving an Audi go far beyond our inclusion of a driver's side air bag in every model.

Recently, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration conducted a 35-mph crash test on an Audi 100 like the one below.

Of the cars they've tested, it recorded the best Crash Test Index score of any car currently sold in this country. In the critical area of head injury potential it registered the best score ever recorded in the 10 years that the NHTSA has conducted the test.

of chance. They are the result of the latest computer technology and safety engineering techniques.

Better though that you never have an accident at all. Audi believes a car should enhance your driving skills. Not test them. This led us to conclude early on that the best way to propel a 2-wheel driven car is by the front wheels. So the wheels that steer the car and slide and propel the car in a different direction than the driver is attempting to steer. After nearly 60 years of refinement, the front-wheel drive in our 100/200 Series represents the system at its most advanced. Our efforts didn't end there. In 1980 we introduced a drive system like no other: Quattro all-wheel drive. It too is available in our

Audi Didn't Just Have The Intelligence To Pioneer ABS, We Gave Ours A Higher IQ.

Audi ABS systems know something other ABS systems don't. They know they're in an Audi.

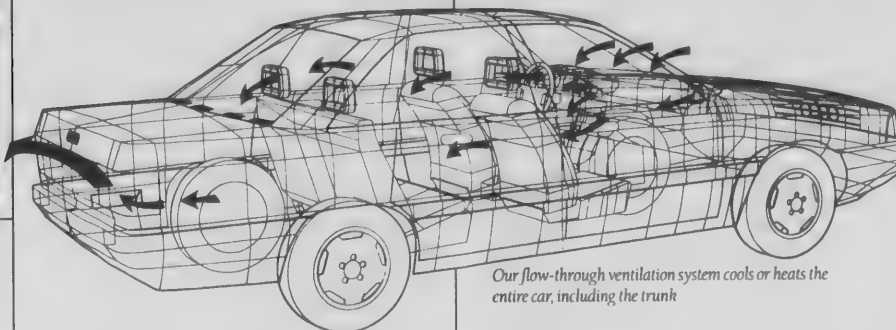

Working with the supplier, we educated the electronic brain of each and every ABS system to the unique characteristics of each of our cars. Each has been programmed to optimize an already sophisticated brake system. One that is load-sensitive, pressure-regulated and, in some cases, lateral acceleration sensitive. In fact, the brake system on our Quattro models, bolstered by ABS, is smart enough to react to the steepness of a hill or the "g" forces of a turn.

And Audi was smart enough to make sure our brakes perform normally without ABS. We even provide a switch to turn ABS off for certain conditions like gravel or deep powder snow where regular braking may let you stop in a shorter distance.

Such thinking extends into every corner of an Audi.

Should a fuel-injection computer fail in some cars, it would stop you in your tracks.

Our flow-through ventilation system cools or heats the entire car, including the trunk

But not in an Audi. Every system has a "Limp Home" mode. Either a mechanical or electronic backup that lets you keep on going. Albeit not setting any land speed records.

We install some very good stereo music systems in Audis. We also install an excellent electronic theft deterrent system that renders the AM/FM cassette inoperable if removed from the power source.

Many cars talk about flow-through ventilation. But in an Audi, after the air cools or heats you, it cools or heats one other important thing. Your groceries in the trunk. By extending air-flow into the luggage compartment, Audi's flow-through ventilation effectively air-conditions or heats its contents as well.

If your passengers comment about all the leg room in the back seat it's not because you've got the front seat all the way forward. We purposely curve the backs of front seats to leave more room for knees.

A minor point perhaps. Unless you're in the back seat.

Every Audi has features like these. But there are some Audis with even more things that set them apart. Our 200 and 200 Quattro sedans.

The 4-speaker Audi/Bose® sound system (each speaker has its own amplifier) sounds like it was

The 2.3-liter powerplant found on our 100 Series displaces only 141 cubic inches yet delivers nearly the "one horsepower per cubic inch" that demarcates a racing engine from a roadgoing one. Such extraordinary efficiency is typical of Audi engineering.

Dual diagonal braking system links each front wheel to the opposite rear wheel, helping maintain safe braking should one system fail. On Quattro models, brake circuits are linked left to right made just for the cabin of the 200. And it was.

The Kodiak leather seats not only adjust 8 ways for your comfort. There's a memory for the driver's seat that can recall how four different people like it adjusted.

There's even a 6-function trip computer that can tell you everything from how many gallons of gas you've burned to your average speed. Which you should watch carefully.

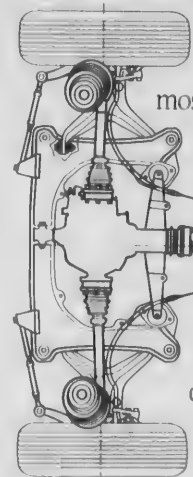

The turbocharged, 162-horsepower engine can take you from 0 to 60 in as little as 7.7 seconds.

10 Years After Audi Introduced All-Wheel Drive, No One's Been Able To Beat The Original.

This is not 4-wheel drive as most people think of it. This is a system as good to have in that continuously senses which wheels have the most traction and transfers more of the power to them. On takeoff. Through corners.

One that is constantly in action.

Over slippery spots. Up and down hills. It even responds to the weight of all that luggage you've managed to cram in the trunk. We call it Quattro all-wheel drive.

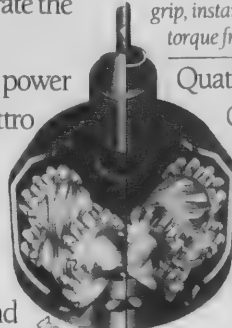

And while there may be several new systems as of late, none operate the way Quattro does.

Some bias much of the power to the front or rear axle. Quattro puts the power where the traction is, which could be either axle.

Some divide torque evenly between front and rear but can't transfer power dynamically the way Quattro does. Still others are part-time and basically intended for bad weather. Unlike Quattro, which has benefits no matter what the weather.

Racing proved that. In 1989,

The Torsen® differential continually transfers power from the wheels that slip to those that grip, instantly moving up to 75 percent of the torque from one axle to the other.

Quattro won 7 of the 13 IMSA-GTO races it entered. On dry pavement. The year before, in Trans-Am, no one gave Audi a chance, racing modified standard Quattro 200 sedans against custom tube-framed cars. At, we might add, a severe disadvantage in horsepower.

Yet we had 8 victories and 4 second-place finishes in 13 starts. And won both the Driver's and Manufacturer's Championships.

In a fast start, more power shifts to rear wheels. On straightaway, power is evenly distributed.

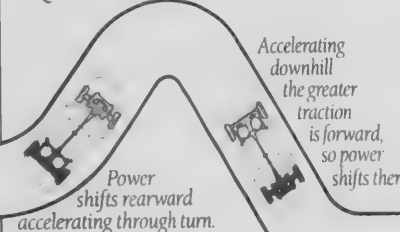

A short list of Quattro victories includes 4 world rally championships, 6 North American Pro Rally championships, 4 Pike's Peak records, 2 Trans-Am championships and the IMSA-GTO winningest driver award to Hans Stuck.

There is a more practical distinction.

Quattro isn't just one model. Or an extremely expensive option.

Quattro all-wheel drive is available in every Audi, from the 80 Series up.

For those seeking it in its sportiest manifestation, there's the Coupe Quattro, a car for the number conscious. With 164-horsepower, a top track speed of 135 mph, a 10.3:1 compression ratio, 4 valves per cylinder, double camshaft and no limit on exhilaration.

As front wheels hit ice, power transfers to rear.

As front wheels leave ice, power moves forward.

If All Cars Were Built Like This, Our Highways Might Not Have Speed Limits Either.

The engine, per Motor Trend, is "smooth, quiet and absolutely resolute in its onward rush." And swift. Zero to 60 mph takes just 8.7 seconds.

It should be. This engine is a graduate course in high-technology powerplants.

Another Audi engineering feat: internal brake calipers that not only provide a 17 percent larger brake surface, they're less likely to overheat or fade.

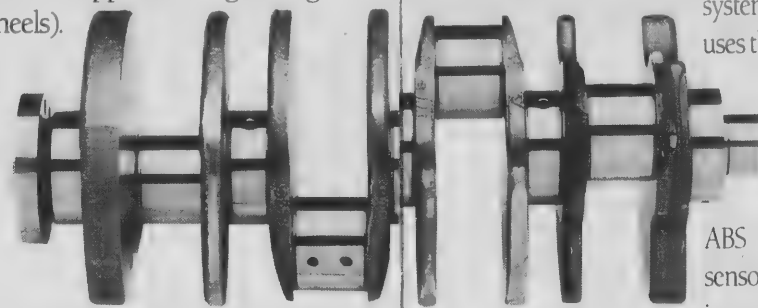

Like the Ilmor V8 engine that won last year's Indy 500, it makes great use of aluminum and magnesium alloys to minimize weight.

Its leichtmetall block doesn't use cylinder liners.

Instead, the bores are etched to expose a surface of silicon crystals

(a substance so hard it has a more common application—grinding wheels).

Our V8 crankshaft is built using technology from the aircraft industry. While still red-hot, the shaft is twisted to optimally align the counterweights for smooth running.

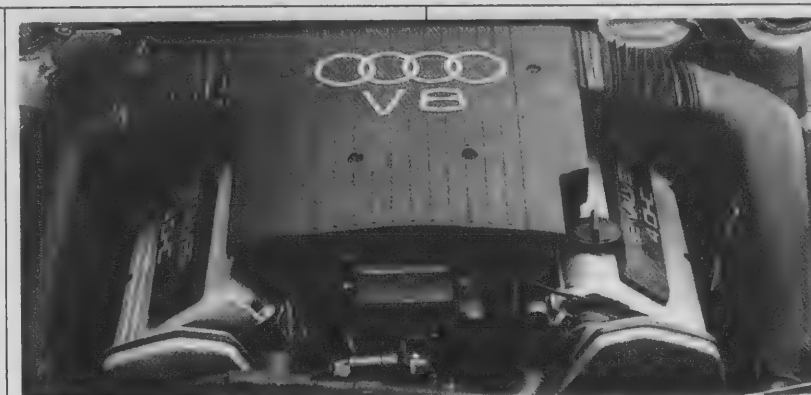

Like the Corvette ZR1 V8, it breathes deeply with 4 cams and 32 valves feeding 8 flattened dome combustion chambers. And like the Porsche 928S4, its fuel injection is state-of-the-art. Adaptive Bosch Motronic. The result is horsepower and lots of it—240 from its 3.6 liters.

None of which is squandered or allowed to escape the control of the driver. That required the invention of the world's first fully automatic Quattro® all-wheel drive, and an ingenious adaptation of ABS. The system uses the

ABS sensors in each wheel to continuously monitor traction. Any wheel slip is detected within 1/50 of a second and compensated for. In the blink of an eye it can transfer as much as 100 percent of the power from axle to axle. Shifting torque to the wheels with more grip. Extracting maximum traction out of every road surface. First, ask the people

The Board of Selectmen is expected to make a decision Monday at its regularly scheduled meeting (7:30 p.m., town offices) about Penguin Park, the new playground located on Iceland Road and Route 133.

The popular tot lot has turned into a headache for the town instead of the blessing for young children that it's meant to be. It is dangerously located on a busy street where there is not enough parking.

We believe the selectmen may be moving too fast on Penguin Park.

The board has discussed priorities for the park, set guidelines for locating it and engaged other town officials in the decision process. However, the public hasn't had adequate time to respond to the possible solutions.

Just this week, the Townsman received a phone call from a person who said he wouldn't want his wife and children alone at the Rec Park site, off Woburn Street. He said that in the winter, when a parent with house-bound toddlers is apt to want to get outdoors, that location could be isolated and dangerous. While we are not sure we agree with that person, we believe that the public will have valuable ideas about each site. And although the final decision is up to the Board of Selectmen and the town manager, it is the parents of children who will use Penguin Park who have the most to gain or lose by the decision.

Selectman Gail Ralston said there is an "informal agreement" among the selectmen to choose the soccer fields off Burnham Road for relocating Penguin Park. Apparently the selectmen favor that site because it has off-street parking.

The community has waited this long. Yes, we are in a hurry to make the park safe, but we don't want to make another mistake. If the selectmen feel the pressure to make a quick decision because the current site is dangerous, they should give themselves some breathing room by temporarily closing the Iceland Road park. The decision is too important to make without picking the brains of the public.

Our town, incorporated in 1646, was perhaps named after Andover, England, and has evidence of inhabitants as early as 7000 B.C. We were originally Cochichewick (Great Cascade) and included North Andover, which was purchased from the natives for six pounds and a coat. By 1709 the area was divided into North Andover, the former center near the Burying Grounds, and our present town, which included West Andover, Shawsheen, earlier called Frye Village, Ballardvale and South Lawrence.

The Ice Age left us Haggetts, Foster's and Poms ponds. The Merrimack River is on our northern border and the Shawsheen, its tributary, runs north to south through our middle.

With a population of 28,000, we are 23 miles north of Boston and are 32 square miles in Essex County. Route 28 is along our midsection. Routes 93 and 495 are at our edge and 128 is a few miles off. We are bordered by North Andover, North Reading, Wilmington, Tewksbury, Dracut, Methuen and Lawrence.

Andover became identified as the Hill (Phillips Academy); the Mill (mills aside the Shawsheen River); and the Till (at the peak there were 75 large farms).

Founding families were fervent Puritans whose initial Congregational Church was erected in 1645. The first recorded town meeting was held in 1656. Simon Bradstreet became the colonial governor and his wife was the first colonial poetess.

The settlers skirmished with the native Algonquians of the Pennacook Confederacy. The settlers learned how to protect themselves, added their numbers by European arrivals and witnessed a plague that reduced the natives from 100,000 to 5,000.

There were the King Phillip Wars, named after a native who mobilized against the settlers throughout New England around 1679, and witch hysteria, three of them eventually paying the supreme price.

In 1647 Massachusetts legislated that towns of 50 families should have a school master and those of 100 families should have a grammar school. It was believed that previously our town had ministers to prepare the ambitious for college and dames' schools to instruct younger children.

Phillips Academy was founded in 1778 by Samuel Phillips, a Harvard graduate. (His brother founded Phillips Academy in Exeter, N.H.) By 1807 the Andover Theological Seminary was begun on academy property and later moved to Harvard University. When Abbot Academy for Girls was opened on School Street in 1829, the town became known as a national leader in education. By 1973 the two academies merged.

In 1850 Benjamin Punched left $50,000 for a public, free secondary school, subsequently called Punched High. In 1957 it was housed in what subsequently became West Junior High and in 1988, West Middle School.

In the Civil War, 600 townsmen served and 53 saved their lives. Many folks were anti-slavery and some assisted with the Underground Railroad.

In the Revolutionary War, 95 men left for Lexington, arriving late; however, they did fight at Bunker

Library issue is a molehill

Editor, Townsman:

"Andover has a wonderful library" was the first thing I was told about this town even before we moved here. As a frequent patron, and for a couple of years, a part-time employee of the library, I know this is true. Therefore, I am bothered when I see the issue of access for young readers become a mountain, when in fact it's a molehill. I am also disturbed that no effort has been made to work out a compromise, since there is, literally, a middle ground.

Last week I checked to see that there is still an area of empty shelves on the ground level of the library, at the back of the 600s. Why not move the young adult fiction from the upstairs alcove to this area of shelves? Children in grades five and six who would like to read these books can go up one level from the children's room. This way they will not disturb the adult patrons on the main floor. The alcove shelves could be used for the adult paperback fiction, which is now on the ground level.

Since there have been cutbacks in the library staff, I would also suggest that Ms. (Palmer) and Ms. (O'Neill) organize a group of parent volunteers to help monitor this "middle ground." These volunteers are especially needed on the afternoons of the school in-service days. Perhaps, to paraphrase a native American saying, parents will have a better understanding of the library's point of view after they have walked a mile in the library staff's shoes.

While I am happy to see children exercising their democratic right to sign petitions, I would rather have those efforts be of benefit to others less fortunate than themselves. Why not have children collect and donate books of their own that they no longer need, to a volunteer adult-literacy program in Lawrence. Many of these adults are reading on a third- and fourth-grade level and though the stories may be young for them, it will give them an opportunity to develop the reading skills children in Andover take for granted.

Library — the other side

Editor, Townsman:

A couple of weeks ago I wrote a letter to the Townsman suggesting that the library open its main floor to children who can conduct themselves properly. I've received quite a bit of feedback since that letter. Most of it was positive.

I did, however, get a negative call, and because I feel that, contrary to what the caller said, a town's newspaper is one of its best potential public forums, I'd like to reply to the caller's very legitimate concerns on this page.

The caller said: 1. I should have looked at the issue from the library's side before I allied myself with a movement to usurp its policy; 2. If policy at the library was changed, children would descend in hoards on the main floor and staff could never handle the numbers which, if you look at census figures for the age groups now omitted, would be in the high hundreds; 3. Senior citizens have finally returned to the library, the higher noise level of children would chase them away; 4. This "battle" should not be brought to the newspaper where it would only be fueled by emotion; 5. There are rumors afoot out there that I had some political motivation in writing my letter.

In reply: 1. Whoa! I've seen the library from both sides; I like the people working there and I think it's a lovely facility. As for allying myself with anyone, I don't have much time in my life for conspiracies. Obviously, my opinion that barring kids from the main floor of "their" library without permission is not appropriate to the real world is just that — my opinion. As far as I know, I have the right to it. I doubt if my opinion is dangerous to the library or anybody else, but I hope it makes people, maybe even people in the library, think.

2. Sure, kids would descend upon the main floor in large volumes (no pun intended) for the first month. It is human nature to try out one's new freedom and to test the limits of it. The first month would probably be hell. But afterward, things would quiet down; it is not the crowning desire of every sub-seventh-grader in Andover to camp out on the library floor. In time, even access could very well make things a bit easier for the staff. Now staff members must put an incredible amount of time and energy into the often difficult task of segregating patrons by age and booting the younger ones out which causes resentment and nasty words from kids who have the same problem I have trying to understand why their age makes them persona non grata in their town's library. With universal access the staff would only have to concentrate on evicting noisy offenders of all ages, an easy task, because one just follows the sound. Resentment from the evicted patron would be minimal, because they would know they'd violated a library rule so time-honored and revered that some guy wrote a musical about it. Also, young kids who ask the reference desk for help in using computerized indices have worked with computers in school; chances are that, once taught, they'll need little repeat training from the staff. This would free up staff to bounce noisy adults and kids and teach us computer-illiterate adults how to call up last year's National Geographic.

3. I'm glad seniors feel at home in the library; someday, as a senior, I hope to feel at home there. But does every group with a unifying factor (age, in this case) have to find its comfort at the exclusion of another? This is something that's beginning to disturb me a lot, with the threat of Proposition 2½ hanging over the town, do we have to speak of ourselves as factions that must fend for ourselves and everyone else be damned? Frankly, I know a number of "seniors," and I don't think their age automatically means they won't share tax-supported learning space with younger people. If they need absolute quiet, if any adult needs absolute quiet, he or she would be wise to take to that lovely lounge on the main floor or the adult quiet study area on the top floor, which is restricted to those 18 and over. The main floor is often noisy now, what with adults and teen-agers chatting and turning pages noisily, reference librarians giving information and staff telling young kids to get out. I have my doubts that a policy change would make much difference.

4. Why on earth is a discussion of the policy of the public library even considered a battle? Are we talking about the well-preserved house of some fusty lady (or gentleman) reserved for display to the deserving? Or are we discussing a living institution for all ages, which must answer to the town it serves? What better way is there for the library to get a sampling of public opinion than to hold an open forum in the town paper? Exactly what are we protecting here and from whom?

5. Surely you jest! Everyone knows that the safest political course is keeping one's mouth shut. No, I just want my kids to be able to use the library without paranoia, if they behave themselves.

Good points on tot lot are overlooked

Editor, Townsman:

Your editorial of June 21 was truly "dramatic." ("Better safe than sorry," page 38.) From any park an accident can hurt or kill a person, if they are careless, regardless of location.

The problem with Penguin Park is not parking, nor is it the children. The parents are doing a great job in caring for them. Make use of the area in the rear of the park for cars. Another problem is that we somehow have forgotten the sound of children's laughter and joy. The good points are overlooked: the happiness to both children and parents. Improving the neighborhood by bringing people together.

I live at 76 Lowell St. and can state frankly that the accidents you claim could happen are a probability and not facts. Lowell Street is proof of this. Real problem: Look at the corner of Main and Lowell streets, going west. Cars parked in no parking area, drivers opening doors on the left side of cars without concern of traffic turning in Lowell Street. They think nothing of traffic no matter the direction of travel, yet no one has yet to be hurt or killed.

I sometimes find it hard to leave my drive, but this is Route 133, a main highway, so we live with it.

Looking at Andover's history

Hill. Colonel Osgood stored many of Harvard University's books and other valuables in his Andover home during that time.

Today, our town, a metro-suburb, has streets that recall its early heritage: Abbot, Ballard, Barnard, Chandler, Foster, Frye, Holt, Osgood, Poor, Stevens.

Among those who helped shape our national culture were P.A. graduates Oliver Wendell Holmes and Samuel B. Morse; Harriet Beecher Stowe, wife of a P.A. professor and author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin"; and Samuel Francis Smith, who composed "America" while an Andover Theological Seminary student.

Notable landmarks are the Andover Historical Society, Addison Gallery of American Art, Robert Peabody Archaeological Museum, Merrimack Textile Museum, historical and contemporary structures, including Bancroft Elementary School.

Ours is a very American town.

Tom McKenna has worked for several years in testing and guidance in the Andover public schools. He often writes about history.

How about young persons on skateboard on highway in heavy traffic. Come on, let the children enjoy themselves. Life is too short to worry about things like this. Don't take green space for parking

Editor, Townsman:

The Central Business District Subcommittee consideration of taking green space and trees to enhance parking and pollution in The Park area is abhorrent. The Conservation Committee should be up in arms.

The Park belongs to all the residents of Andover. Any changes of its present use would require town meeting action. It is hoped the members would consider (that) ill advised.

The bowling alley lot could support a multi-tier parking garage. It might be financially viable for the owner/developer and not cost more tax dollars to support the downtown business district.

Editors note: Harry Smith, town planner and liaison to the CBD subcommittee, said Monday that the idea to allow parking along The Park side of Chestnut Street is no longer being considered by the subcommittee.

Thanks to students for recycle help

Editor, Townsman:

The Andover Recycling Committee was fortunate is receiving assistance at the recycling bins from students from the middle and high schools and the Pike School. Your able help on Saturday mornings in collecting glass and plastic from the townspeople was much appreciated.

You also did a magnificent job in collecting recycling paper from the schools.

It was a pleasure to work beside such dependable young people, who were there rain or shine or frigid weather. You worked with enthusiasm and good humor. Not to be forgotten are the students who contributed Styrofoam plates and cups.

To all of you we say thank you. The earth will thank you. You made our (collection) days.

Selling water is a bad idea

Editor, Townsman:

At Town Meeting two weeks ago, the residents of Andover voted to authorize the Board of Selectmen to sell water to North Reading. The stated goal is to help a neighboring town in trouble.

As an advocate for the river, I spoke in favor of caution, since this proposed sale is a transfer of water out of the Merrimack River basin. This is a net loss of water to the basin since this water will never be recycled back into our watershed. Such out-of-basin transfers are heavily regulated and discouraged by state laws and regulations. In short, they are a bad idea and set a dangerous precedent.

This particular proposal represents a relatively small amount of water based on overall river flow. However, the message sent to towns in and outside the basin is clear — the Merrimack is an easy alternative to solve water supply problems. If we readily give away our water to out-of-basin uses today, how can we avoid major withdrawal proposals from Boston and other towns. As these towns encourage development, they need increasing quantities of waters.

The vote was of particular concern for several reasons:

1. Although town officials stated that such a sale is limited to a maximum of 1.5 million gallons per day (mgd), nothing in Article 61 of the warrant or in the North Reading application to the state for an interbasin transfer suggests such a limit.

2. According to the application North Reading submitted to the state, the town has done very little to encourage home or business water conservation measures since an unsuccessful attempt in education and in-home water conservation device distribution in 1984.

3. Projections made in 1986 indicate that Andover will have an average daily demand of about 6.1 mgd by the year 2020. The town currently has capacity to treat 24 mgd, leaving an average surplus in 2020 of almost 18 mgd. If the long-term plan is to sell that surplus to other communities, this will likely include increased amounts of water leaving the Merrimack basin.

4. Andover currently sells water to North Reading on an emergency basis. This is delivered through an existing 8-inch line with a capacity to transfer 300-400,000 gallons per day (gpd), according to an Andover public works official. This amount of water should be adequate to satisfy North Reading's water deficit while they institute mandatory conservation measures, renovation of existing groundwater wells and growth management strategies.

The proposal adds a 12-inch line to the existing 8-inch line, thereby substantially increasing the potential amount delivered to North Reading.

5. Article 61 called for a sales contract with North Reading for a period not to exceed 20 years. The director of public works confirmed at the meeting that North Reading is likely to want to extend the agreement at the end of the 20 years. Therefore, we are facing a permanent withdrawal situation.

In my comments, the Merrimack River Watershed Council proposed an agreement that provides water to North Reading through the existing distribution system for a period of three to five years. This would require little expense to either town, except to modify the application to the state. This could solve North Reading's immediate problem without taking the pressure off them to find solutions within their own basin and community. This is a reasonable approach if the objective is to "help" a neighbor.

For now, the vote has passed. If Andover residents are as concerned as they appeared at the meeting, they should let their selectmen know. The contract terms still must be negotiated and signed by the selectmen. This is another opportunity to influence the outcome.

The precedent is dangerous and unnecessary if the objective is to simply lend a helping hand. The council urges that the agreement be drafted so that the message to other water-short communities is clear: We are willing to help, but we will not sell away our water for the future or jeopardize the health of the Merrimack River through the adverse impact of cumulative withdrawals of water.

Here's a message for Chet Atkins

Editor, Townsman:

I was quite surprised this past week to receive an unsolicited letter from Congressman Chester D. Atkins, addressed to me in a franked envelope, telling me about all the wonderful things he has done to open a new postal facility in the Old Town Hall. After patting himself on the back, he incidentally points out that many other Andover people may have had something to do with it.

Of course, there is nothing new with politicians taking credit for something that somebody else has done. However, there is a more important issue. Why should the taxpayers be forced to subsidize Chester's campaign for re-election by his abuse of the Congressional franking privilege?

If someone wants to read the drive sent out by Chester's campaign, that is his or her business. When I am forced to pay for such nonsense, it becomes my business. Chester, please clutter up somebody else's mailbox or retire to Concord.

Editor, Townsman:

As co-chairmen of the Festival of Trees sponsored by the Andover Garden Club, we wish to thank all the citizens of the town of Andover who participated in or supported this event.

We are very proud of the beautiful Victorian planter urns which were recently installed in front of the Old Town Hall. Part of the proceeds from the event paid for these beautiful, historic urns. The rest of the income supports the Andover Garden Club's beautification projects in town and their scholarship funds.

Tennis player Chiang wants to play for pay

By Rick Harrison

His dream is to play on Centre Court in Wimbledon.

But for now, while the top professional tennis players in the world prepare to invade England for that prestigious annual event, Andover's Jeff Chiang must try to work his way up through the ranks on courts in Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita, Kan.

In a matter of weeks, Chiang has gone from the top of the collegiate tennis world to the bottom rung of the professional ladder.

Jeff, 21, graduated from Columbia University on May 16 with a degree in political science and a yearning to try his hand at the play-for-pay level.

"I just want to give it a try and see how far I can go," said Chiang.

Jeff has come a long way from humble beginnings, recently being selected to the 1990 Volvo Tennis/All America team as well as being named the National Senior Collegiate Player-of-the-Year.

The first honor is bestowed by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association, and Chiang automatically qualified by ranking among the top 20 players in the country and being seeded among the top 16 in the NCAA Singles Championship Tournament.

Jeff fell in love with the game at age 7.

"My parents used to hack around on the public courts, and I started as their ball boy," he recalled. "I began developing my game by taking lessons at Old Colony, and when I was 9 years old one of the pros suggested I enter a tournament.

"I didn't do well at first. It took me about a year to get competitive."

By the time he was 11, Jeff was a regular on the New England Lawn Tennis Association (NELTA) circuit, earning a seventh place ranking in the New England 12-and-under division.

At age 12 young Mr. Chiang had climbed to the No. 1 spot, and twice he held down the No. 1 spot in the 14-and-under and 16-and-under divisions as he progressed through the NELTA program.

"I was doing well in NELTA tournaments," said Chiang. "But I had trouble when I competed nationally."

Jeff was traveling cross country to play as early as age 11, entering tournaments in San Diego and Houston that year (1980).

By the time he reached high school Jeff's reputation had preceded him.

He played for Andover High as a freshman, in between NELTA stops, and went undefeated as the Golden Warriors' No. 1 in singles.

Chiang, who lives at 5 Bradley Road, not only was unbeaten in regular-season play that year — he didn't lose a set or drop more than four games to any opponent on the high school level.

He did, however, lose a match to Tim Allen of Manchester High in the semifinal round of the Eastern Mass. Division 2 North Sectional Tournament.

Unable to find the caliber of competition he desired in high school, Jeff spent his sophomore through senior years on the NELTA circuit.

"I used to practice on my own and then go to the high school matches," explained Jeff. "But I left when they instituted a rule requiring you to go to high school practice."

Jeff's younger brother, Chris, just completed his junior year at AHS. Playing No. 2 singles for the Golden Warriors, the two-time Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star was undefeated in regular season and Team Tournament play as AHS advanced to the state semifinals. Nearly-invincible Chris lost just once as a sophomore in '89, to Billerica's Scott Christo, and has since avenged that defeat.

Am. Legion baseball puts in a week of struggle

By Rick Harrison

A strong pitching performance by Eastern Mass. Division 1 high school "Player-of-the-Year" Chris Eggert highlighted a week of struggle for the Andover American Legion Post 8 baseball team.

Eggert tossed five innings of no-hit ball to key a 5-2 victory over Haverhill, but Post 8 also dropped a 5-2 decision to Methuen Post 122 and a 5-1 verdict to Lawrence Post 15 in Zone 8-8A action.

Those results left Andover at 2-3 overall heading into last night's showdown with undefeated Lynn Post 6 under the lights at Fraser Field. Eggert was scheduled to hurl against Lynn (7-0), as many of the Andover High players returned to the scene of their 4-2 loss to New Bedford in the State Tournament semifinal round.

The four-game week continues Saturday when Post 8 hosts Methuen at Phillips Academy (5 p.m.), and a doubleheader is scheduled with Haverhill beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday at PA.

"There are a lot of factors involved in our (slow) start," said first-year Legion coach Joe Iarrobino. "I'm still optimistic and I think we're going to do fine. We have the nucleus of the successful Andover High team, and a few new faces as well."

"So far we haven't been stringing our hits together. We'll get a couple and then die. But I don't expect that situation to last.

"Also, because of the high school team's success, we didn't have as much practice time as some of the other teams," explained Iarrobino. "And the high school kids were on an emotional high through the tournament, and then a downer when they lost. It takes some time to bounce back from that."

"We're actually playing pretty well. The pitchers are around the plate. No one has really handled us, but our opponents always seem to have one big inning."

"Dave Blank had one tough outing, but I think it's a minor setback. We have two legitimate starters in Eggert and Blank, and Joe Marinaro should move in as the No. 3 starter," said Iarrobino. "Keith (Abernathy) can come in and throw hard, and Billy Batchelder looked strong in relief against Lawrence. That gives us five excellent pitchers — which should be enough."

Methuen, 5-2

Righthander Tom Langlois, a freshman pitcher at Bentley College, fired a four-hitter and struck out three as Methuen Post 122 trimmed Post 8 at Potter's Field.

Lefthander Dave Blank (0-1) took the loss, yielding just six hits in a route-going effort. Untypical, however, were six walks, one hit batsman and only one strikeout.

Jamie Kaplan and Kristin Kearins competed in the New England AAU regional gymnastics championships May 12 at Andover High School.

Both girls had qualified to compete in floor exercises, beam and vault at meets earlier in the season.

Jamie placed second all around and Kristin placed fourth all around in the novice division.

Jamie also placed second on floor, fourth on beam and fourth on vault.

Kristin placed first on beam, fourth on floor and fifth on vault.

Jenna Bernstein, also from Andover, placed third on floor.

The girls are coached by Sharon MacDonald at Merrimack Valley Gymnastics in North Andover.

United Masters finish well

The Andover United Masters of the masters Division II (south) advanced to the semifinals match last week against Lowell of Division I. Andover lost after a well played match but put together a respectable winning record in Division II after only two seasons of playing together against Cambridge, Wilmington, Nashoba, Needham and Acton/Boxboro.

Many of the players represent the leadership in the Andover Soccer Association and have contributed to the town's highly successful and popular youth soccer program. Coaches George Abbott of Yale Road and David Adey of Gavin Circle are coaching soccer and Little League baseball. Team captain Yos Den Hartog of Langley Lane, not pictured, Jack Holmes of Osgood Street and John Hsu of Orchard Street serve on the board of directors of the Andover Soccer Association. Ben Volinski of Radcliffe Drive is also coaching for the town of Andover.

Ed Kupa Jr. to row in the Henley Royal Regatta

Ed Kupa Jr. of 4 Joseph St. will row in the Henley Royal Regatta at Henley-on-the-Thames in Oxfordshire, England, in July, representing Trinity College in a four-man boat.

The Olympic hopeful began his rowing career in 1984 at Phillips Academy where he rowed in an eight-man boat for two years. Ed was picked to row in the Junior Olympic rowing team, representing the United States at the world rowing championships in Czechoslovakia. His boat placed seventh out of 30 competitors. That same summer, Ed won a silver medal at the national rowing championships in Indianapolis in a four-with.

Ed stroked and captained the heavyweight crew team at Trinity College in Hartford, where he graduated in May. During college summers, he won medals locally, regionally and nationally in a single scull, a double and a four-with.

Ed won first-place in the single open men's race at the Firecracker Springs in Nashua, N.H., in 1987 and 1988. He silver medaled in a single scull at the Bay Stage Games in 1988 and at the national rowing championships in Indianapolis in a quad and in the Northeast Regionals in Albany, N.Y., in a single scull 1989. Ed has medaled at the Dadvails in Pennsylvania and the Head-of-the-Connecticut. He won a silver medal at the Northeast Regionals last weekend in a quad and a bronze medal in a four-with.

Rowing four hours a day in two two-hour sessions is the rule while in training. After the Henley, Ed will row locally and nationally until his entrance into Columbia University Graduate School in the fall with his eye on the Olympics in Barcelona, Spain, in 1992.

ing came in the 18-and-under division three years ago, when he was No. 2 behind Lou Gloria of Orange, Conn.

Jeff was not recruited by the top tennis colleges, so he opted for Ivy League member Columbia University where he could step in and contribute while getting a quality education.

As a freshman in college he played No. 6 singles for the Columbia varsity, going 17-3 in dual matches. He also played third doubles where the record was mediocre.

He jumped to the No. 2 singles position behind Rob Kresberg as a sophomore, going 15-2 in duals, advancing to the second round of the NCAA Individual Tournament, and finishing with the No. 85 ranking in the nation.

As a junior he was No. 1 for three matches and No. 2 the rest of the time, duplicating the 15-2 record and earning the No. 55 ranking. He was ousted in the opening round of the NCAA's.

This year, playing No. 1, Jeff was 7-2 and finished with the No. 11 ranking after dropping his NCAA opening round match to Marco Garzo of Fresno State in California.

"No excuses. I just didn't play very well that day," he admitted.

Chiang missed two weeks of the season, around spring break, with the chicken pox.

One of Jeff's biggest thrills on the tennis court came last summer, when he set history of sorts by sweeping the singles, doubles and team titles at the prestigious Junior Davis Cup Tournament in Poukeepsie, N.Y.

His playing partner was Mike Shyjan of Chelmsford and Harvard University, who also earned Volvo Tennis/All America status this spring.

Chiang's feat can only be duplicated and never beaten in the future.

In typical fashion, however, he downplayed the accomplishment.

"Mike and I played well that weekend. But many sections of the country didn't send their (top two) best collegiate players."

He and Shyjan have been practicing together since they were both 11 or 12. "We met through playing in the same tournaments," said Jeff. "We practiced at the Westford Swim and Tennis Club and Northmeadow (Tewksbury) a lot, and it just developed into a partnership on the court."

Now that he's reaped all these honors and graduated from Columbia, Chiang is testing the professional waters.

He's playing the satellite circuit, which is somewhat akin to beating the bushes in minor league baseball.

But, on the other hand, it's a start. Anyone can play on the satellite tour, provided they pass the qualifying tests early in the week.

Andover Gold is 2-1 in Pony Lg.

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Gold baseball team split a pair of games with Methuen, dropped an early-season first-place showdown contest against intra-town archrival Andover Blue, and had a game with Stoneham postponed when no fields were available.

AG whitewashed Methuen 3-0 in their Suburban Pony League contest, dropped a 3-2 decision to the same team in a non-league battle, and gave away five runs en route to an 8-4 setback against Blue.

Those results left Gold at 2-1 in the league and 3-2 including non-league action.

AG returned to league play yesterday, hosting the Reading Jets, and Saturday morning Gold travels to Reading to face the Astros at 10 a.m.

Andover Gold, 3-0

Tall righthander Matt Marvin hurled Andover Gold's second consecutive shutout at Methuen's expense, and its third including an 11-0 pre-season romp over Chelmsford's

Babe Ruth team.

Marvin was in control throughout, yielding just two singles while walking three and striking out six. He retired eight in a row at one point, and 13 of the last 15 Methuen batters he faced.

He lost the no-hitter in the sixth, when the leadoff batter dumped a soft single into shallow centerfield. The second safety came with two down in the seventh, a hot shot that caromed off third baseman Pat Walsh's leg.

Methuen advanced only one runner as far as third, and just three made it to second base.

Gold, which had baserunners in every inning except the sixth and left the bases loaded in the fourth, jumped to a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first.

Mike Sullivan's long flyball to rightfield was misplayed for a three base error, and he scored one out later on Rick Saggese's infield out. John Shea then drilled a triple down the leftfield line, and crossed

Baseball puts in a week of struggle

"The walks got Dave in trouble," said Iarrobino. "He was just missing, but most of the men he walked came around to score."

Methuen jumped ahead 2-0 in the bottom of the first on two walks, a wild pitch and a two-run single by Langlois.

The winners added one run in the fourth and two more in the fifth to make it 5-0.

Andover broke through in the sixth when Brett Hammond walked, and Blank drilled a two-run homer over the 350-foot sign in straightaway centerfield.

Blank also rapped a double, Chris Eggert singled and Matt Orlando cranked a double.

Andover, 5-2

Chris Eggert (2-0) mastered Haverhill for five overpowering innings at Haverhill Stadium, allowing no hits, walking none and striking out eight.

Post 8, meanwhile, jumped ahead 3-0 in the third with three manufactured runs on just one hit. Pete Reming walked, Joe Iarrobino singled, both advanced on a wild pitch, Brett Hammond reached on an error scoring Reming, Hammond stole second, Eggert rescued Iarrobino with an infield out, and Hammond crossed on Dave Blank's sacrifice fly.

Haverhill's leadoff batter in the sixth broke up Eggert's no-hitter, grounding a bleeder up the middle and into centerfielder.

"I took Chris out immediately after the hit because he'd thrown 75 pitches and was going to pitch in an All-Star Game (Massachusetts vs. Connecticut) Sunday," explained Iarrobino. "The only reason he stayed in so long was the no-hitter."

Enter Joe Marinaro, who bobbled a slow roller and then surrendered a two-run triple to losing pitcher Joe L'Italien.

That closed the gap to 3-2 and left the tying run at third, but Marinaro bore down and worked free on a grounder to third baseman Bill Batchelder, a strikeout and a flyout to centerfield.

Coed soccer camp set for August

A one-week, coed soccer camp for teens will be offered Aug. 13 to 17 at Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The program will provide competition within different ability levels and help teens ages 12 and above improve overall skills.

The program will include guest lecturers and tacticians, skills instruction by position, six-on-six competition with trophy, field games by ability groups, video instruction and specialized goal-keeper instruction.

Soccer coaches from Triton Regional, Pentucket Regional, Georgetown, Amesbury and Methuen high school are on the coaching staff.

The cost of the camp is $115 per student, payable at registration. For further information or a registration form, call Nancy Brown, division of continuing education.

Andover added a pair of insurance runs in the top of the seventh. Iarrobino singled, Hammond laid down a sacrifice bunt, and Eggert slapped an RBI double down the leftfield line. Eggert was out trying to stretch it to a triple, but Dave Blank then walked, stole second and crossed on Keith Abernathy's basehit.

Marinaro allowed a bunt single by Mike Favalorato lead the bottom of the seventh, but preserved the victory by retiring the next three batters easily.

Eggert and Abernathy had a double and single apiece, Iarrobino two singles and Brendan Sharkey a single.

Defensively, leftfielder Brett Hammond and first baseman Joe Iarrobino both made spectacular diving catches in the third and fifth innings respectively.

"Defensively we're playing very well," said coach Iarrobino. "But only three players, Eggert, Abernathy and Iarrobino, are hitting the ball consistently."

Lawrence, 5-1

Emilio Colon scattered six Andover hits as Lawrence Post 15 remained first in the league, breaking the game open with three runs in the top of the fifth at Phillips Academy.

Dave Blank whitewashed Lawrence for the first three innings, but he complained of a sore elbow and left with the game still scoreless.

Southpaw Jim Hanning (0-1) struggled over the next two innings, eventually being tagged with the loss, and Bill Batchelder finished with 2-1/3 innings of strong relief.

Post 8 took a brief 1-0 lead in the third when Jim Landry beat out an infield hit, took second on a wild throw, and scored on Chris Eggert's double.

Lawrence tied it in the fourth when Kevin Bateman doubled and Bill Colantuoni singled him home.

Blank doubled and Bill Colantuoni singled him home.

Post 15 jumped ahead 4-1 in the fifth on RBI singles from Brian Lacroix, Bateman and Mark Conway.

In the seventh Conway hammered a triple and crossed on Colantuoni's single.

Chris Eggert once again doubled and singled, Brett Hammond singled, Bill Batchelder singled, and Matt Daniels stroked a pinch-hit single in the seventh.

Defensive standouts were Keith Abernathy at third base and Bob Sheehan in leftfield.

Sheehan, in addition to make a shoestring grab, started a 7-6-2 play that nailed a Lawrence runner at the plate in the seventh. Sheehan relayed to shortstop Peter Reming, who gunned his throw to catcher Hammond for the tag.

Four Little League teams ready for tourney

By Rick Harrison

It's International Little League All-Star Tournament time, and four Andover teams are currently practicing for their opening games in the local District 14 portion of the tourney.

Representing Andover in the annual event will be the American and National Major (11-12 year old) teams, the Junior 13-year-old squad and the Senior 14-15 year old All-Stars.

The tournament traditionally begins the second week of July, and after the District portion progresses through Bi-District, Sectional, State, Regional and World Series play.

The Andover Senior 14-15 All-Star crew will be first in action, traveling to face Billerica American at the Locke School in Billerica on Saturday, July 7.

The Andover National Major Leaguers drew a first round bye, and will open Monday, July 9 at 5:45 p.m. on the road against the winner of the Tewksbury American-Lowell Highland first round contest.

If Tewksbury wins the game will be at Poulin Field on East Street in Tewksbury, while a Lowell victory will put the game at DeCosta Field behind the Daley Elementary School in Lowell.

Tewksbury and Lowell square off Saturday, July 7, for the right to face Andover National.

The defending champion Andover American Major Leaguers begin Tuesday, July 10, at Deyermund Field on Chandler Road at 5:45 p.m., hosting South Lawrence West.

The Andover Junior 13-year-old All-Stars also drew a first round bye, and will start Wednesday, July 11, on the road at 5:45 p.m. against the survivor of the Lowell Highland/Acre vs. Billerica opener.

If Lowell wins the game will be at Hadley Field in that city, while a Billerica victory puts the game at the Locke School.

In recent years Andover has enjoyed spectacular success at the Major League level.

The 1988 Andover National 'Stars' defied the odds by winning 14 games (one loss) en route to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

Eight teams, from an original field of many thousands around the globe, qualify to compete at Williamsport. Four of the finalists are American teams, while four others are from the Far East, Canada, Europe/Middle East and Central America.

The Andover Nationals finished sixth in the world that year, losing to Spring, Texas, 8-2 in their first Series game, beating Panama 2-1 in a consolation game, and then losing to Saudi Arabia 2-1 in their second consy.

Last summer the Andover Americans grabbed the spotlight, winning the District 14 crown, battling from a 7-0 second-inning deficit to beat Stoneham 8-7 in the Bi-District game, and then dropped a 4-1 decision to Swampscott in the State Tournament semifinals.

The Andover Nationalteam of 1986 actually started the current string of successes, becoming the first from this town to qualify for the State Tournament before bowing out in the semifinal round.

Under 16 Mosaic soccer team is a winner

By Billy-Ernesto Martin

The Under 16 Mosaic United, a soccer club based in Beverly but with several Andover players, was crowned 1990 Massachusetts state champions at the tournament held at UMass-Amherst. The team will travel this weekend to Niagara Falls to compete in the U.S. Northeast Regional Tournament. Merrimack Valley athletes on the Mosaic Club include Tim Boyle, Shawn Diaz, Billy Houde, Gabriel Miller, Dereck Moody and Joshua

Todd from North Andover and Reiji Hayes, Brian Jones, John-Christopher Martin, Brendon O'Leary and Keith Selvitelli from Andover.

Mosaic was overwhelming at UMass with 5-0, 3-1, 1-0 victories and 5-0 versus the Bandits-75 in the final. Local scoring contributions included Moody (5 goals, 3 assists), Boyle (1 goal), Miller (1 goal), Diaz (1 goal, 1 assist), Martin (2 assists), Selvitelli (1 goal, 2 assists), Houde (1 goal) and Haynes (1 goal).

The nearly perfect defense was led by sweeper Brian Jones and goalkeeper Josh Todd. Success at Niagara would mean a trip to Virginia for Coach Aparicio Smart's squad on the July 25-29 weekend for the U.S. Nationals.

Martin will not accompany his team to Niagara due to injury on his right knee but will be cheering them all the way.

Andover Gold is 2-1 in Pony League

Brian Flanagan singled but was stranded at third in the AG second inning, while Mike Famiglietti drew a one-out walk in the third stanza and was left at second base.

Gold loaded the bases in the fourth on an error and singles by Andy Brown and Flanagan, but a strikeout enabled Methuen to escape.

In the fifth Sullivan belted a leadoff triple and, after Famiglietti lined out to left, scored on an opposite-field single by Saggese.

Gold played another strong defensive game, shortstop Mike Sullivan starting a 6-3 doubleplay, third baseman Pat Walsh collecting four assists, Todd Murray turning in a solid performance at catcher, and first baseman Rick Saggese digging a couple low throws out of the dirt.

Methuen, 3-2

Methuen pushed across a pair of unearned runs, one in the fifth and the second in the sixth, to pull out a 3-2 victory over Gold in a non-league encounter last Sunday night at Potter's Field.

Three Andover pitchers combined for a five-hitter, but a pair of costly throwing errors led to AG's downfall in an otherwise well-played contest.

Todd Murray pitched the first two innings, yielding three singles and one run.

Andy Brown pitched the next two, blanking Methuen on no hits although he walked two and hit a batter.

Pat Walsh finished up and was victimized by the infield miscues, permitting two hits and striking out two.

Gold fell behind 1-0 in the first inning, but tied it in the top of the second when John Shea singled, stole second, took third on a wild throw, and scored on Todd Murray's sacrifice fly.

Methuen regained the lead 2-1 in the fifth, but Andover again pulled even in the sixth when Tom Tanin belted a long double to centerfield, advanced on a wild pitch, and crossed when Brian Flanagan laid down a suicide squeeze bunt.

Victor Santoro's two-out RBI single in the sixth produced the eventual winning run, rescuing Jeff Tamis who had walked and taken second on an error.

Gold threatened with two down in the seventh when Shea beat out an infield hit and Andy Brown walked, but a pop-out ended the game.

Andover managed just four hits, two of which were infield singles. Tanin finished 2-for-2 and Shea 2-for-3.

Pat Walsh continued his strong defensive play at third base with four assists, and second baseman Brian Flanagan made a nice runningcatch in shallow rightfield.

Braves and Twins are second half champs

By Jim Arnold

The Braves played a perfect half-season of baseball, finishing with an 8-0 ledger, to capture the Andover National Little League majors second half title.

The Braves, who chalked up a 14-2 overall record, earned the right to play the first-half champion Pirates in a winner-take-all league championship game.

In the American League, the Twins compiled a 7-1 record to win that league's second-half title.

The Twins and Red Sox will play one another for their league bragging rights.

The Braves/Pirates winner will advance to the best-of-three town championship series against the Twins/Red Sox winner.

Twins 13, Indians 3
The Indians jumped to a 3-0 lead, but an 11-run fourth-inning explosion by the Twins ended any hopes of an upset.

Jon Adams and Brian Tisbert were each responsible for knocking in four Twin runs. And Jason Deranian contributed the key defensive play of the game for the winners.

Indian highlights included the glove work of Jed Wartman, the three innings pitched by Steve Vickers, and the hitting of Andy Henderson.

Braves 10, Mets 1
Back-to-back homers by Nikki Bilwakesh and Todd Wilson highlighted this Brave win. Patrick Annese and Chris Farr turned in sterling mound stints for the winners.

The Mets got strong performances from Billy Ryan, who laced two hits, and Brad Bat-chelder, who played heady defense.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 2
This thriller went scoreless for four innings, before Jason Nicholson unloaded a two-run homer to put the Cards ahead.

But David Sullivan and Chris Silvestro batted in the tying and go-ahead Pirate runs in the bottom of the fifth. Then, Louis Capobianco finished off a pitching gem by working his way out of a sixth-inning jam to boost the Pirates.

Capobianco fanned nine and allowed just three hits.

In addition to Nicholson, Danny Gosselin and Jamie Howard provided Cardinal excitement.

White Sox, 5 Red Sox 4

The White Sox got the second half of their season off to a bright start by bouncing the first-half champion Red Sox.

Jeff Thompson was a hero for the White Sox, belting a game-winning homer in the bottom of the sixth to cap a three-run rally. Thompson went three for four on the day, and also struck out five in a two-inning pitching appearance.

Greg Wojtkun cracked a pair of White Sox hits and contributed several outstanding plays at first base.

For the Red Sox, Jason Belloardo had two hits, and Keith Grant played a sharp third base.

Twins 10, Yankees 2

Joe Sciolla and Brian Tisbert combined to pitch a one-hitter for the winners. Kevin Farrah had three hits and five runs batted in to pace the Twin attack. Tisbert also had three hits, and David Salafia added a pair.

For the Yankees, George Secchiaroli hit a mammoth home run to spoil both the no-hitter and shutout. Mike Ravens made an outstanding catch in centerfield, and Matt Mahoney played well at shortstop.

Braves 6, Pirates 4
Nikki Bilwakesh again pitched good ball to push the Braves past the first-half National League champion Pirates.

Hugh Quattlebaum was the Brave offensive catalyst, his three-run homer being the nail in the Pirate coffin.

For the Pirates, Jason Caverly and Louis Capobianco helped keep things close with their offensive and defensive efforts.

White Sox, 6 Orioles 2
The ever-improving White Sox kept up their strong play with this solid effort against the Orioles.

The White Sox struck for four runs in the first and pitchers Mark O'Sullivan and Chris Kearn did the rest, holding the O's to just three hits.

Ryan Games was a White Sox highlight film, going three for three and playing a terrific game at shortstop.

Paul McNeice performed admirably for the Orioles, striking out eight in just four innings. Scott Ciruso and Joe Jelson also provided Oriole excitement.

Red Sox 12, Indians 5

Ted Witman clocked his second homer of the season, a two-run job, to key this Red Sox victory. Witman added a single and scored three runs.

Jason Veilleux, Ryan Martin, and Rick Santagatti all had two Red Sox hits. Martin and Aaron Bancroft split the pitching duties for the Red Sox.

Andy Henderson hit a two-run homer and doubled for the Indians, and 10-year-old Matt Guenther hit the ball hard.

Cardinals 7, Cubs 4
David Shaffer surrendered just five hits, walked only two, and struck out four to lead the Cards past the Cubs.

His support came primarily from Eric Stoltz, Joe Hogarty and Jason Nicholson, with each lacing a double.

Matt Herling, Dan Gosselin, and Mark McGarry were Cardinal defensive standouts.

For the Cubs, David Weiner cracked a long double, while Lucas Smith, Mark Lagone and Joe Long were defensive stars.

Twins 16, White Sox 8
The Twins hammered away for nine runs in the opening stanza to cool off the White Sox. David Salafia and Jon Adams each had four rbi, while Brian Tishert homered to pace the Twins.

For the White Sox, Andy Torres kept the scorekeeper busy with a double, homer, 4 rbi, and two runs scored. Jeff Thompson also struck for two White Sox hits.

Yankees 8, Indians 6

Leftfielder Mike Homewood made two spectacular catches with the bases loaded to save this win for the Yankees.

Homewood's heroics enabled the expansion Yanks to win their third game. The new team has been within striking distance of winning almost every game this year.

Homewood was not alone; shortstop Matt Mahoney contributed two stellar plays of his own in the last inning.

Indian highlights included a two-inning appearance by pitcher Jeff Danis in which he struck out five and allowed no hits.

Cubs 7, Giants 5

David Weiner pitched the distance to record this win. Support for Weiner came from Lee Baron, who had three hits, Chris Rogers, with two doubles, and Rob Busby, with two hits. Josh Hoener and Brendan Long excelled defensively.

Alex Tommasino hung tough on the mound for the Giants, and also slapped two hits. Chris Everett, Adam Trippi, and Scott Petersenall hit the ball hard, and Josh Prudden played heads-up defense.

Braves 7, Cardinals 6

David Constantine and Hugh Quattlebaum were among the many hitting heroes as the Braves stayed on top of the National League's second half standings with this last-inning win.

Quattlebaum struck out the Cardinal side in the top of the sixth, then finished things in grand fashion with a game-winning rbi in the bottom half of the frame.

For the Redbirds, Mark McGarry pitched a super game, Dan Gosselin had two hits, and Jamie Howard made a fine catch in the outfield.

Red Sox 10, Orioles 4

Rick Santagatti had three hits and knocked in two runs, Ted Witman doubled and singled, and Howie Schlichting rapped a triple to lead the Red Sox.

Oriole highlights included Ben Perrault's bat, Bill Kearns collecting two hits and Matt Avery playing excellent shortstop.

Braves 12, Cubs 7

The Braves decided

this one early by tallying nine times in the opening two frames.

Patrick Annese, Hugh Quattlebaum, Nikki Bilwakesh, Todd Wilson, and Andy Male all socked the ball through-out the contest.

For the Cubs, Robbie Busby had four hits in as many at bats, David Weiner slapped two safeties, and Lucas Smith doubled in two runs.

Indians 8, Orioles 3

Mark Formichella had four hits, Albert

Kwon had three, to lead an Indian attack that struck for a season-high 12 safeties on the day.

Andy Henderson pitched all six innings, striking out six while giving up just four hits. Henderson got defensive support from Steven Milmoie and Jed Wartman.

Timmy Campbell highlighted the Oriole cause with two hits. Joe Jelson and Paul McNeice also had solo hits, and Dan Lombard was a defensive stalwart.

The Dodgers edged out first-place Astros 7-6 in Tuesday's game. Pitcher Tim Caverly struck out 11 Astros while not issuing any walks. Dodgers Dave Charland, Mike Shepard and Chris Sintros had multiple hits. Julio Valentin knocked in the winning run in a dramatic seventh-inning rally.

Quick Lube President Jim Chinigo

Quick Lube

Quick Lube of North Reading (formerly Express 10-Minute Lube) has changed its name, but not its commitment to customer service. Now independently owned by President Jim Chinigo and a group of local investors, Quick Lube emphasizes their dedication to the quality of the service, in addition to the speed with which the service is delivered.

To ensure quality service, the number of primary services performed on your car has been increased to seventeen. At Quick Lube, not only do you get your car's oil and filter changed and the chassis lubricated; but the service is not complete until the tires are checked, the interior is vacuumed and the windows are washed. To backup the commitment to quality service, Quick Lube offers this guarantee: If you are not satisfied with the service, Quick Lube will remedy the problem or refund your money. Only Quick Lube offers this "satisfaction guaranteed" service.

Preventive maintenance of your car by taking care of routine fluid replacement is the goal at Quick Lube. Using quality Pennzoil products, they also offer a "top-off" policy. At any time within the first 90 days or 3,000 miles, they will

"top-off", free of charge, any of the fluids in the vehicle to ensure that your car is maintained in optimum condition.

New tot lot may move

said the upper Shawsheen site was a strong candidate.

"We're looking seriously at Rec Park, the Shawsheen lower and upper Shawsheen," Mr. Stapczynski said Tuesday.

The Board of Selectmen will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday to make a decision on the relocation of the park.

Penguin Park is the new children's playground at the corner of Lowell Street and Iceland Road. Volunteers, in cooperation with town officials, raised approximately $40,000 to purchase the new swings and other playground equipment, then spent a weekend in May installing it.

A lack of parking at the site, and its location on Lowell Street, a busy section of Route 133, has created a dangerous traffic situation for both those using the park and passing motorists. At least three traffic accidents occurred on Lowell Street in front of the park in the first month it was open.

The planning department has been studying possible solutions to the problems at the current site as well as looking for other sites where the new equipment could be moved.

Optional sites

Twelve sites are being considered for the location of Penguin Park, including its current location on Iceland Road.

The 12 sites are Iceland Road; West playing fields off Chandler Road; West Fire Station on Chandler Road (rear); Rec Park off Woburn Street; Ballardvale playground off Andover Street; Shawsheen fields (upper) off Burnham Road; Shawsheen field (middle) near the Burnham Road/York Street intersection; Shawsheen field (lower) off Balmoral and York streets; High Street (snow melt area); Cuba Street playground off Cuba Street near Red Spring Road; Central Park (Whittier Court end); and the Doherty School playing fields.

The criteria the planners are using to judge each site are:

- Access by vehicles and pedestrians;
- Parking, on-site for at least the average number of users;
- Security, to prevent vandalism and to allow privacy without isolation;
- Compatibility with the surrounding neighborhood;
- Environmental, wetlands should be avoided while shady areas are desirable.

At a Board of Selectmen meeting June 18, Chairman James Barenboim asked Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski to arrange a special meeting if a recommendation on the park was ready before the next scheduled board meeting on Aug. 9. That recommendation is apparently now ready.

Mr. Stapczynski and his staff have met twice with Penguin Park Steering Committee members to review the optional sites.

"I want to compliment them because they have been very generous with their time," Mr. Stapczynski said.

While the steering committee's number one priority is to keep the park on Iceland Road, members have been very open and cooperative about considering other sites, according to the manager.

"I feel very positive about the meetings I've had with them," he said.

Although keeping the park at Iceland Road has not been ruled out, according to Mr. Stapczynski, Ms. Ralston has not heard much support for that idea.

"I am not hearing any strong arguments to maintain the playground at that site," Ms. Ralston said.

Mr. Stapczynski has received a safety report from police on the Iceland Road site, but would not reveal the details.

The police department has also had input on the new sites, according to Jack Milne, the department's public safety officer.

"I was asked to check several of the possible sites," Officer Milne said Tuesday.

Police looked at parking, traffic and access. The safety officer tried to look at the impact on neighbors as well, he said.

The three sites Officer Milne was asked to look at were Rec Park and the upper and lower Shawsheen fields.

Nancy Risseeuw, of 2 Aspen Circle, has been involved with the Andover Soccer League and said she wouldn't want to see the playground equipment take over any soccer fields.

"My personal opinion is I don't want to lose any soccer fields," Mrs. Risseeuw said.

She agreed that traffic along Burnham Street is very light. When her son was in the league that uses the upper Shawsheen field, she used to park in the street.

"They park along the street. There is a small parking lot. I recall maybe 15 cars parking there," she said.

Mrs. Risseeuw agrees that having the playground and the soccer fields at the same site would be convenient for many families, but she wasn't sure where the off-street parking would go.

"There would be a lot of very angry parents if it turned out there were no parking spaces and a lot of soccer players showed up and there were no place to park," Mrs. Risseeuw said.

Another resident has expressed concern to the Townsman this week that the Rec Park site may be too remote, and not a place where a parent alone with a child would feel safe.

During the summer, there would be little chance of being at the park alone. But in the spring or fall, or in winter as the resident suggested, it could be quiet at that site.

"There is a possibility they may be the only one down there," Officer Milne said.

Y has SAT help

An SAT and PSAT/Verbal Preparation course is being offered at the Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA, beginning July 16. The class will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. for three consecutive weeks. High school sophomores, juniors and seniors will learn proven test-taking strategies that may lead to score gains of between 60 and 170 points.

The goal is for participants to gain proficiency in techniques for solving the analogy and sentence completion test items. Techniques for answering the reading comprehension questions, which are most troublesome, will be presented in depth. Intensive vocabulary development is also featured. Students become familiar with the most commonly tested words on the SAT and PSAT.

When to guess, how to score and interpret test results are a few of the many questions answered. Students apply newly learned skills by taking actual SATs. Through repeated practice individuals gain the confidence that enables them to perform at their highest level of the rigorous College Board Exam. Some participants may experience improvement in math scores.

Instructor Roberta Wolman, a full-time reading and learning disabilities specialist in Lexington, has been successfully preparing students for the SAT and PSAT for more than 15 years. She is also a registered educational therapist with the Learning Disabilities Network in Rockland. Ms. Wolman previously taught at Boston University and served as a consultant and author in the field of education.

Course tuition is $180 and materials are $36. For registration and information, contact the YMCA at 685-3541. For specific details about the course content, contact Ms. Wolman at (617) 395-8045.

Civil Liberties involved in the library case

Nancy Jacobson, director of the library, has said she inherited the policy from a former library director, but she agrees with the policy. The trustees discussed the issue at their May 31 meeting, and although they agreed with Ms. Jacobson, they appointed a subcommittee of library trustees Karen Herman and Margaret Jurgan to study Ms. Palmer's complaints about the library. However, the trustees aren't scheduled to meet again until September, at which time the subcommittee is scheduled to report back on Ms. Palmer's complaints.

Ms. Jacobson is on vacation until July 2. Patricia Edmonds, president of the library trustees, told the Townsman she will meet with Ms. Jacobson as soon as she returns to work. She said she would prefer not to comment at this point about the most recent developments.

Jean Palmer doesn't want to wait until September to see if the trustees will change the children's access policy. Ms. Palmer has generated a library file more than an inch thick. It contains letters to the Townsman, the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune, the Boston Globe, Jane Pauley of NBC Television in New York and others.

Ms. Palmer wrote June 4 to the Massachusetts Library Association in Wakefield, and Ms. Palmer recently received a response from Marnie Warner, chairwoman of the MLA's Intellectual Freedom Committee. Ms. Warner said in her letter that the MLA policy "encourages libraries to adopt and implement the Library Bill of Rights and the Standards for Public Library Services to Children in Massachusetts."

That document, Ms. Warner pointed out in her June 19 letter, states, "Children must have access on an equal basis with adults to all the services and materials the library provides."

Consequently, Ms. Warner wrote Ms. Palmer that, "The trustees and staff at the Memorial Hall Library have chosen or are unable to implement the concept of access to all materials for children under seventh-grade. It is my understanding that two trustees are reviewing the current policy and do have access to the Standards for Public Library Services to Children in Massachusetts. I would hope that once the trustees and the library staff review the information and evaluate their reasons for implementing a restrictive policy, they will be able to resolve the issues that led to a restrictive policy and begin to allow children access to all materials."

But Ms. Warner wrote Ms. Palmer that since the Memorial Hall Library trustees have taken the policy under advisement, "I believe it is necessary to give the trustees reasonable time to review the policy."

Sarah Wunsch, staff attorney for the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union Foundation, to which Ms. Palmer wrote, replied in a letter addressed to library Director Jacobson and Patricia Edmonds. In the June 19 letter, Ms. Wunsch wrote, "On behalf of the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union, I am writing to express my concern about the policy of the Memorial Hall Library to exclude young people from the main floor of the library unless they are accompanied by a parent or have written permission from the librarian. I also understand that children below the seventh grade may not use their own library cards to borrow materials from outside the children's room. These policies and practices appear to be in violation of the state and federal law and constitutions. They also are at odds with the spirit of and principles upon which public libraries are based."

Ms. Wunsch's letter goes on to say if she misunderstands the library's policy, to advise her of same. But she said, "If they are in fact the library's policies, I ask you to reconsider them and choose other methods of dealing with people, regardless of age, who may be disruptive or who misuse the library. I am sure the library is interested in resolving this controversy in a manner which encourages reading, learning and inquiry, and which avoids unnecessary, time-consuming and expensive litigation."

Holy Family has new leader

Holy Family Hospital Foundation begins its fourth year with a change in leadership. The hospital's board of trustees appointed Robert A. Henderson to succeed Clifford E. Elias as foundation chairman. Mr. Elias served as chairman from 1987 when the foundation was established. Prior to that he had been chairman of the hospital's development committee for eight years.

William L. Lane, president of Holy Family Hospital, commended Mr. Elias for his outstanding fund-raising efforts. "During Clifford Elias' three-year term as chairman, gifts to the foundation totaled over $2.2 million. The direction and guidance he gave to this new entity during its formative years have been invaluable."

Mr. Henderson, vice president of Andover bank, has served as a trustee of the foundation for three years. He lives in Andover with his wife, Louise, and their three children.

John Fenton, chairman of the board of Holy Family Hospital, had words of praise for the fund-raising accomplishments of the trustees and council members. Emphasizing the importance of their work, he spoke about the cancer management center, "the single most important project this hospital has ever agreed to undertake."
